Message from the Dean

Transitions

Last summer was the second time in five years that I said farewell to friends and colleagues and left to pursue other opportunities. Naturally, I was thrilled at the chance to come to the University of Alberta and my position as Dean of this great law school has more than lived up to my expectations. I would be less than candid, however, if I did not acknowledge that the transition from the University of New Brunswick, and for that matter my earlier move from the University of British Columbia, was bittersweet. The transition to new challenges was rewarding and exciting, but I found I was also feeling a tinge of regret for what I was leaving behind.

For many of you the move from law school to the world of professional practice or some other career where you use the knowledge and skills you acquired here will be the biggest transition in your life to date. Of course, you have all graduated from high school and university, and many of you will have experienced other significant changes during the course of your lives that required you to leave one set of friends and acquaintances and move on to a new environment. Nevertheless, the law school experience is a particularly intense one, and one that builds not only lifelong friendships but professional connections that will be significant for you throughout your career. No doubt there will be some things you will be happy to put behind you, but it will be harder to let go of other aspects of life in law school.

The transition to a new stage of your life does not mean that the relationships you built up in law school will disappear, but it is inevitable that they will change. Many of you will move to new cities to pursue your careers. Even those of you who stay in Edmonton will find that new responsibilities prevent you from maintaining the same type of relationship with your friends that you had during law school. So you should not be surprised if you find that the excitement you feel upon graduating from law school is colored with just a hint of sadness at moving on from what I hope has been a very positive experience for you.

The good news is that even though your relationships with your classmates and the faculty and staff at the law school will evolve, these relationships can continue to be an important part of your personal and professional life. So enjoy your new status as one of the University of Alberta's distinguished law alumni, and stay in touch with us in the years to come.

Philip Bryden
Dean and Wilbur Fee Bowker Professor of Law

Law Students' Association

Law school has been an amazing experience: rewarding... challenging... outstanding... Canadian. These are some of the words that came to mind in reflecting on my three years of law school. We are fortunate to be able to attend law school and make lasting friendships with classmates, staff and professors. Thank you to the Yearbook Editor and Committee for allowing me to provide a message for this year's publication.

The practical and academic skills that we have acquired through our legal studies have prepared us for the practice of law. My involvement as an editor, moot competitor, and member of committees and clubs has broadened my education. Winston Churchill once wrote "my education was interrupted only by my schooling." My schooling at the UofA includes the life lessons learned outside of the lecture hall, on the rugby pitch & basketball court, acting in Law Show, at Edmonton's Courthouse & Emily Murphy House, and the moot courtroom.

I have had the opportunity to spend all three years of law school on the Law Students' Association Executive. I have had the pleasure to work with 27 different Executive members. I've learned a lot from the opportunity to work with these accomplished individuals and I have also learned a lot about myself, in particular the importance of listening, being patient, timely, respectful and organized. I am also very appreciative of the advice given to me by everyone on the 4th floor, in particular Dean Bryden, Vice-Dean Renke, Assistant Dean Hartley and Professor Percy. Looking around much has changed at the law school in three years: the newly renovated MacInnis Centre is now open, there is now an undergraduate health & dental plan, a summer study program in Granada, a combined degree program with the University of Colorado, and the process of implementing the Juris Doctor (J.D.) is underway.

When I was applying to law school in 2006 my parents said "move west young man" in order to experience living in another part of Canada. As my fellow classmates can attest, the UofA law school experience is a truly national one in nature. Where else can you play rugby on a pitch in Vancouver, take a weekend to ski in Fernie, attend a constitutional law conference in Quebec City, volunteer with Student Legal Services in Edmonton, compete at Law Games in Saskatoon and Montreal, argue corporate securities laws in Toronto and negotiate an Aboriginal Accord in Ottawa? This student experience has shaped our past, present and set a framework for our futures.

To continuing students, all the best with your legal studies at the UofA. Please stay connected and active in student life. To Faculty, practitioners, staff and Steve, thank you for your continued guidance and support throughout law school and for understanding the demands on students' schedules. To my fellow LSA Executive members (past and present), it has been a pleasure and honour to work with all of you. Thank you for this opportunity. Finally, to my fellow graduates, remember that "we make a living by what we get, but we make a life by what we give." To everyone, until our paths meet again, I wish you all the best with your future endeavours and look forward to hearing from you soon. Cheers!

UNIVERSITY OF ALBERTA

ALUMNI & FRIENDS

OF THE FACULTY OF LAW ASSOCIATION

Congratulations to this year's graduates!

As the newest members of the Alumni & Friends of the Faculty of Law Association, you have joined one of the most active fraternal organizations at the University. Our association continues developing opportunities to socialize with alumni, students and friends, providing articling students with advice and members with tools to stay in touch both with each other and their association.

Be sure to visit our website at www.law.ualberta.ca/alumni which is updated regularly with upcoming events and information relating to the association.

Also, please advise the Alumni and Friends of your latest contact information, including email, so we may keep you informed about faculty and alumni events and send your copy of Without Prejudice and our monthly e-newsletter, WP Update. The association will be a useful resource for you in your career.

Best wishes in your new careers and academic endeavours.
